HEALING AND EMOTIONAL WHOLENESS
BY KEN HEPWORTH

This one-day course considers the place of emotions on the life of the Christian.

Many Christians have been taught to ignore their emotions. The teaching explains that with only two exceptions, our emotions are a reliable guide to our general wellbeing.

Jesus, who is truly man as well as truly God, was able to experience and express the whole range of human emotions.

However, on our part most of us have unconsciously suppressed our emotional pain, without realising that there are physical consequences.

One of the consequences is a failure to experience the love of God or to enjoy His presence.

Another example is the inability to express emotions in a godly way, if we are to be real with ourselves, most of us need some emotional healing .
